NOTE TO THE NEW TEXT

This Revised Manual has been the efforts of people who have had some years of experience with Peace Corps Summer Orientation Language Programmes. The text has been revised with both the New Volunteers and the Language Instructors in mind. The format of the old Manual has been modified in certain areas with the view that the New Volunteer will find the new text comfortable during and after the training programme. Therefore new material has been introduced to meet a series of suggestions and observations which have been made over the years.

A lot of stress has been put on the following in particular:-

1. Grammar.
2. Situational dialogues.
3. Pictorial dialogues.
4. Comprehension Exercises.
5. Pictorial Cues.
6. Monologues.
7. Narrations to introduce dialogues.

The new manuscript has not only been the work of this group, but the contributions form Manuscript which have been written and revised years back by Peace Corps personal and employees. Main sources therefore include the following Manuscripts:-

1. Introductory Krio Language Manual - Sierra Leone Peace Corps Project; Summer 1964.
2. Krio Texts (with Grammar Notes and Translations in English) - Lorenzo D. Turner, Chicago 1965.
3. Peace Corps Sierra Leone Language Manual - Allieu V.V. Musa - January 1978.
4. Krio Grammar Manual - Rich Schroeder and Shirley Walden - 1979.
5. Dictionary of Up-Country Krio - Peter C. Anderson.
6. A collection of Krio Short Stories - S. Chuck Manasary.

However, special praise needs to be accorded to the APCD (Training) who has made this workshop possible.

Workshop Participants

1. Dizo Kamara
2. Ernest K. Weller
3. Thomas M. Turay
4. Thomas Kayeni
5. Jacomas S. Bangura
6. Solomon Thorlie
7. Prince Kalawa
8. Allieu Musa - PACD/Training

The lessons in this Manual have been written with the hope that the teachers would use the audiolingual approach to language teaching.

Through this approach the trainees acquire proficiency through:-

- A) Listening
- B) Speaking
- C) Reading
- D) Writing

However in this Manual, the Authors have given more priority to the speaking aspect. With this in mind, the basic tools of the audio-lingual approach i.e. repetition drills, substitution drills, transformation drills and questions-answers drills have been used throughout in the Manual

The dialogue in this Manual were written by the Authors purely as a result of their many years of experience as a language and Cross Cultural Informants for the Peace Corps. Each dialogue creates a situation in which the Volunteers will ultimately find himself during the period of his stay in Sierra Leone.

Finally, this Manual has been prepared with both the LCI and the Trainee in mind. The LCI will use it as a source of reference material for his teaching and the trainee will use it as a means to an end, that is, to gain proficiency in Krio.

TECHNIQUE I - PICTURE

Use of picture is one of the easiest informant techniques mainly because lenght of the informant's description is easily controlled and new vocabulary is completely explained by the picture's content.

The Volunteer shows the informant a picture and says:-

Look at this picture.

Show me and explain what you see in the picture.

Tell me in four or five sentences.

The Volunteer should then let informant talk about the pictures and repeat his explanation several times. Then the Volunteer should use the same description explanation. If he cannot repeat the entire explanation, then he should ask the informant to repeat the explanation by sentence.

Please repeat one sentence at a time.

I will repeat the sentence after you.

Sentences should be repeated until the entire explanation is mastered. The Volunteer should ask questions about what people in the pictures are doing.

The Volunteer might also record vocabulary under corresponding pictures to complie a pictorial dictionary by topic reviewing. Vocabulary with these pictures eliminates need for English translation; terminology will be learned functionally.

TECHNIQUE II - TASK-ORIENTED SITUATIONS

Because task-oriented situations deal with action, they provide excellent practice in very usage. Because the task involves props and actions, vocabulary is completely defined. Because only one task is described vocabulary on one topic is expanded.

The Volunteer chooses some task or process, perhaps to his job, that he needs to learn to describe. He may need to supply visual aids involved in the task so that the informant can demonstrate the process or task he is explaining. The Volunteer asks (as he hands over the props, for example):

How do you cook rice?
How do you write a letter?
How do you wash a baby?
etc.

These as well as other situations are suitable only if cooking, writing, washing etc. equipment is available for demonstration.

Show me

The volunteer should then let the informant explain and demonstrate the process.

Please repeat the whole thing.

Then, break the explanation into two or three sentence units. The Volunteer should repeat these sentences until he can explain and demonstrate the entire process himself.

Say the first few sentences.
I will repeat.
Say the next few sentences.

Once the Volunteer has mastered the explanation in the present tense, he may then go through the same explanation using imperative, future, past, subjective, conditional forms. He can also change every person to I, we, you, they, etc. He will thus become more flexible in using tense, number and gender.

Narratives are good comprehension exercises for the Volunteer and provides in general sentences that can be corrected.

The Volunteer asks the informant to narrate an incident or tell a short story.

Tell me an interesting thing that happened to you once (an interesting story)

The informant related whatever tale he likes.

If the Volunteer wants him to talk about some specific subject, he says, for example

Tell me about your school days.

The story or incident should be repeated by the informant, then summarized by the Volunteer.

If you repeat, then I will summarize

When the informant has repeated this monologue enough for total comprehension, the Volunteer should summarize.

If the Volunteer so desire, he may also repeat the original monologue and/or ask questions about it.

Like role play, this technique is useful for

- generating original sentences,
- expressing personal ideas about something
- comprehension

The Volunteer asks the informant to talk about mutual acquaintance, historical or legendary character or national.

The Volunteer should ask questions and add comments about the informant's description. (The same procedure may be applied to any topic).

When talking about people the Volunteer should ask

If you were.....what Would you do?

KRIO HISTORY AND ITS RELATED LANGUAGES

Krio is a lingua franca, or common language used as a means of communication between people who speak many different languages. It is not a pidgin, which is a simpler and less commonly used trading language.

Krio did, however, develop from pidgin languages, the first of which was influenced by Portuguese sailors who were on the West Coast of Africa from 1400 to the mid-1600s. Variations of some Portuguese words are still found in Krio:

Salon (Sierra Leone) - Serra Lyoa

Krio - crioulo (Negro born in his master's house)

Kitul (bucket) - quintal (weight or measure)

Some of these Portuguese words were even carried to the New World by pidgin - speaking slaves:

Pikin (child) - pequeninho (small)

kaka - excrement

savo, sabi (to know) - sabir (to know)

The British pidgin from which krio evolved began its development in the late 1600s. Some of the 17th and 18th century nautical terms are still used:

dehk - floor of a building

kohtlas - cutlass

Two significant dialectical English terms also remain:

krabit (miserly) - Scottish for peevish

padi (friend) - Yorkshire for workman's mate

African words and grammar are significant in Krio. During Freetown's early years, the developing language was influenced by the return of several different groups of West Africans. From 1787 to 1800, poor blacks from London, former U.S. slaves from Nova Scotia, and Maroons from Jamaica came to settle. Beginning in 1806, when the British parliament outlawed slave trade, and until 1860, there was an influx of about 60,000 former slaves who had originally come from West Africa. By 1850, it was estimated that there were as many as 200 African languages spoken in Freetown.

Presently, the Krio vocabulary uses words from as many as 20 African languages:

Yoruba	kushe (greetings) - thank you for work
	kaboh - Welcome gari - cassava meal akara (fried cake) - bean ball
Hausa	waala - trouble
Twi (from Ghana)	butu - bow down
	ehnti? - not true?
Wolof (from Senegal)	banga - palm nut interior
Mende	pata - washing stick
Temme	behl - to sweet talk
Mandigo	gara - originally mean indigo
Susu	kohbohkokbok - eggplant
Vai	titi - young girl
Fula	chuck - pierce, stab, inject
Limba	mampana - palm wine
Arabic	yabas - onion
	sara - sacrifice

Some aspects of Krio grammar and phonology are also African; awareness of the Africanisms in Krio often serves to distinguish Krio from English.

1) Pre-verbal tense markers

A bin go de. (I went there).

2) Stringing along verbs

A de kam grap kehri de ting go na yu os.

(I am about to get up and take that thing to your house).

3) Thematic sentences

Da stawt uman we de yanda, i wohwoh

(That fat woman who lives over there, she is ugly).

Comparison by using a verb meaning "surpass"

I big pas in kohmpin. (It is bigger).

5) Tonality which imparts meaning

buli - palm wine jug

* buli - bully

The spirit of an African language is apparent in Krio; it is conveyed by the habit of speaking through images, thus the vivid proverbs and idioms:

If yu yams wait, kohba am. (lit. If your yams are white i.e., of good quality), cover them). - If you are well off, don't show off.

rohtin behleh - (lit. rotten belly) - glutton big yai (lit. big eyes) - greedy

Though the language has some African vocabulary and other African features, the basis of Krio is traditional British English, and the vocabulary therefore presents some specific problems to Americans.

lift - elevator

durehx - prophylactic

but - car trunk

tohchlait - flash light

bohneht - car hood

fita - mechanic

pehtrol - gasoline

spana - wrench

flat - apartment

There also are some words which remain from archaic English:

lukinglas - mirror

motaka - car

yanda - over there

spehktakul - eye glasses

trohsis - pants

pala - living room

drohz - underwear

soba - serious

Some Krio words sound familiar, but they differ from English in meaning, part of speech or tense.

lohng - tall

wes - ass mehmba - think wohndaful - amazing

behteh - good

swit - delicious

mehk - repair

sehf - in fact sehn - throw

lohv - to make love

lan - teach tif - to steal

bohn - conceive marid - to marry

sing - song lohs - to lose

Krio is related to all of the English-based creole languages (pidgins that have developed and become nativized). In West Africa, Krio was spread to the Gambia and Victoria Cameroon by Krios who were sent by the English as administrative personnel during the 19th century. On the western side of the Atlantic, pidgin English arrived from West Africa with slaves and with the thousands of Krios who served as soldiers in the Caribbean during the 19th century. (Note: The krio language, culture and architecture should be looked at as a variant of the Caribbean culture, transferred by returned slaves and the wives of the 19th century soldiers).

The most similar of the New World creoles is Gullah, spoken on the South Carolina and Georgia coasts and near-by islands. It contains thousands of African words, mostly from Mende and Vai (including "titi" and "bohboh"). In many instances krio and Gullah are mutually intelligible (e.g. Krio - a de kehr am go (I am taking it), Gullah - ai du kehr am go ).

In Sierra Leone, the educated people refer to the Krio language condescendingly as a patois, or broken English. Throughout the nation, as education spreads, people use the official language, English more and more and Krio continues to reflect an increasing English content.

PHONOLOGY

I. VOWELS AND DIPHTHONGS

The vowel sounds of Krio are similar to English, although they are generally tenser and shorter than English vowels. With the exception of the diphthongs (i.e. combinations of vowel sounds, as in 'oil'), which may be somewhat longer than their English counterparts, Krio vocalic structure does not allow glides (e.g. the vowel in 'go' in Krio is pronounced as a short and steady "o" with no glides towards "u" or "ou" as it is in English)

a - short	"a" as in hat - fam (farm)
e - long	"a" as in stake - ste (stay)
eh - short	"e" as in met - tehm (time)
i - long	"e" as in meet - chif (chief) oh - almost	"aw" as in say - (oh mohs) (how much)
u - long	"oo" as in choose - bruk (to launder)
o - long	"o" as in go - rod (road) aw -	"ow" as in cow - as (how) ai - long	"i" as in hide - Fraide (Friday)
oi -	"oy" as in boy - oil (oil)

The following sounds do not occur in Krio; remove them from your sound system.

Short "a" as in fat
Short "i" as in hit
Short "u" as in hut

II. CONSONANTS

Consonants in Krio are the same as in English with one exception:
"r" is slightly rolled

III. SOUND TRANSFORMATION

Some sounds change according to invariable patterns:

short "a" a	as in fat - fat (to rhyme with hot) short "i" i	as in fit - fit (to rhyme with meet) voiced th d	as in that - dat unvoiced th t	as in thing - ting
medial or final r a	as in farmer - fama

Some sounds change according to some variable patterns:

short "u"	oh, a	as in butter, bohta, sun - san long "i"	eh	as in wife - wehf, time - tehm
ir oh, a		as in first - fohs, shirt- shat
v b		as in drive - drehb, heave - hib
st t		as in stick - tik,
sc k		as in scratch - krach
sp p		as in spoil - poil
final nd n		as in grind - grehn, mind - mehn
final on in		as in cotton - kohtin

IV. NASALITY

Krio does have a nasal sound as in French "vin"; you can improve your Krio by using this sound.

sohm tehm	(perhaps) two nasals
pan tap	(on top)
kam naya	(come here)
a de kam	(I am coming)

V. TONALITY

There are two tones in Krio: low (-) and High (/), which impart meaning to words. The most frequent pattern os low/high.

Buli	(palm wine jug)
Buli	(bully)
wata	(water - noun)
wata	(to water - verb)
gara	(dye)
bohböh	(small boy)
Limba	(native tribe)
Sara	(sacrifice)
titi	(young girl or woman)
lapa	(fabric or clothing)
fufú	(fermented cassava root)
kaka	(excrement)
mama	(mother)
butu	(bow down
wohwoh	(funky - ugly or broken down)

VI. INTONATION

Tonal patterns in sentences also impart meaning.

Declarative sentence - slowly falls:

A de go na os. (I am going to the House).

Declarative question - slowly rises

Yu de go Bo tide? (Are you going to Bo today)?

Negative questions - slowly rises if anticipating positive response.

Yu noh de go na os? (Aren't you going to the house)?

VII. CONSONANT LIASONS

The indirect object "am" is joined to some words with the consonants 'r' or 't'

foh (r) am	(for him)
mohna (r) am	(bothers her/him)
tu (r) am	(to him)
nia (r) am	(near it)
wan (t) am	(want it)

VIII. ASPIRATION

Emphasis is given to some words by the addition of an "h"

waala (trouble)	wahala
ala (holler)	hala
ebul (able)	hebul
et (hate)	het
at (hurt)	hat

IX. VOWEL LENGTHENING

Emphasis is given to some words by lengthening the vowel:

ba - d	(very bad)
smoh - l	(very small)
ru - d	(very rude)

GRAMMAR REVIEW: Present Progressive Tense

This tense is formed by using "de" before a verb.

- NOTE:
1. In teaching this tense for example "A de go" the teacher should be in the process of going when he says "A de go".
  2. The teacher does the same with the other verbs.

A de go	I am going
Yu de go	You're going
I de ple	He/she/it is playing
I de wok
Mark de wok
A de grap

Teacher/Trainees Exercises

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Teacher revises the Present Progressive Tense by saying the verb and asking the students to act them and say the pattern "A de go".
2. Teacher commands one student to get up (Grap). When he/she is in the process of getting up the teacher asks "Na wetin yu de du?"

3. Drill the pattern "Na wetin yu de du?"
4. Teacher should introduce such words as "Opin", "Opin di do", "lohk di do", "klap", etc. by doing the actions and saying e.g. A de opin di do, A de lohk de os.
5. While doing the actions, have the students ask you "Na wetin yu de du?"

Student A: Is doing the action (klap)
Student B: Na wetin yu de du?

INTRODUCTION TO KRIOL SHORT STORIES

Story telling has been a favourite past time activity for Africans; lessons, morals, and even the figurative aspects of local languages are passed from person to person during story telling times. These stories have to a large extent been modified due to their passing from person to person. Oral tradition holds an important position in the life of the African, thus, you won't be surprised if you hear the same stories in Mende land, Kono land, or Kissi land, they are all basically the same. They are meant to entertain, that's why during the night you will see a group of people singing or clapping their hands under the direction of the story teller. There are no lights in the villages. It is not common therefore to see a fire lighting in front of a house or in the middle of the village.

As you proceed to understanding the languages, you will find these short stories enjoyable and entertaining.

This Dictionary is designed for Volunteers who will be living primarily up-country, and who will be speaking Krio in its "Lingua Franca" form, rather than in the form used in Freetown where it is native language.

Consonants:

- h - Up-country Krio makes much more use of the initial "h", while it is generally dropped completely. The h-sound is often so soft, however, that it sometimes becomes a matter of judgement whether it is being used or not. It's use also varies regionally to a very certain extent, which some areas adding an h to virtually every possible word.
- z - The z sound is in many instances so close to the s sound that the two are often virtually interchangeable.
